CHELTENHAM
OPEN STUDIOS

“The biennial Open Studios event has become a cultural highlight for many people living in and around Cheltenham. As such, I am sure you will be anticipating the thrill of entering such an extraordinary and sensational diversity of creative spaces. Sometimes a singular artist’s studio, sometimes studios of twos and threes; in others, groups or arts organisations. All have put on stunning exhibitions showing the work and progress each has made over the past two years. This fabulous festival of creativity encompasses new members as well as the more established, all prepared to share their work. A buzz of colour, texture, shape, form, light and digital – you can find it all. The thing I love about the over two hundred artists who take part is how supportive they are of one another and how happy to engage in conversations about the work. So, here’s your chance to learn more and perhaps even become the owner of an original piece of art.”

PJ Crook, MBE RWA FRSA, Patron Cheltenham Open Studios

What a pleasure it is to be part of Cheltenham Open Studios 2019. Many of you will be returning, while there will be new friends joining us for the first time. A huge welcome to all.

Once again, I am pleased to tell you that we have grown in number, with a total of 79 participating venues. We are pleased to welcome Beards and Waterstones, in the town-centre and the students at the University of Gloucestershire, end-of-year graduation shows. Their work can be seen at The Park and Hardwick campuses, along with the results of a schools’ art competition, displayed as a huge collage, created by the University’s Illustration students. Also, you could treat yourself to a trip to the more outlying artists and see our beautiful Cotswolds

If you want to get an overview of the event, then head to The Gardens Gallery (V1), Chapel Arts (V15) and The Wilson (V16), where taster exhibitions, representing a cross-section of the work on show, this year, are being held. As always, look for our special displays of the artists’ works in miniature. These are for sale at very affordable prices at Chapel Arts (V15) and at St Lukes Church (V21)

And, if you want to have a go yourself, there are a number of workshops taking place, including a free, all-age art day at Glenfall Primary School (Venue 48)

I know that our visitors have a wonderful time meeting the artists and learning about how they are inspired and about the processes they use in their practice. Let’s hope the weather is kind and you get to go on all the trails you would like

I look forward to meeting you

Molly Abbott, Chair, Cheltenham Open Studios
